IN THIS ISSUE

FEATURES
The Dilemma of Visibility in the Virtual Classroom
by Winona Wynn

Forged in the Fire: Black Identity and Art
by Awendela Grantham

NEWS & VOICES
Pioneering the Humanities in Digital Form
by John R. Clarke and Nayla K. Muntasser

Migranthood: Youth in a New Era of Deportation
Author Lauren Heidbrink spotlights her recent publication from Stanford University Press.

OTHER
Third Chapter Project Now On Amazon Smiles

FEATURES

The Dilemma of Visibility in the Virtual Classroom
by Winona Wynn, Heritage University

Our recent mandatory and self-imposed situational isolation has contributed to our scrutiny of gatherings of any size. Some of us have been more alone with our thoughts than ever before. A collective, visceral cry to be seen and heard echoes throughout proverbial caves. As one compelling poem of the mystic, Rumi, suggests, Who are we in this complicated world?

CONTINUE READING

---

Forged in the Fire: Black Identity and Art
by Awendela Grantham, North Carolina A & T State University

There is no room for public dialogue if we cannot identify and measure the extent of what has happened. Stereotyped representations of Black and Brown peoples exist everywhere—in art, music, TV, Internet, advertising. We are polarized between those who resist (like Nat Turner, 1831) or those who “get along” with everyone (like Rodney King, 1991). Where can we find a “safe space” for constructive dialogue about race relations?

CONTINUE READING

---

VOICES & INDUSTRY NEWS

---

THE LAST YEARS OF KARL MARX
An Intellectual Biography
MARCELLO MUSTO

---

A gift to the many who still look to Marx for political inspiration.
—Silvia Federici, author of Caliban and the Witch

---

STANFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS

---

VOICES

Pioneering the Humanities in Digital Form: a Collaboration between the Oplontis Project and the ACLS Humanities E-Book Series
By John R. Clarke and Nayla K. Muntasser

As the world struggles with the horrifying toll that the COVID 19 pandemic is taking on lives and livelihoods, from time to time moments of clarity emerge, providing a glimmer of hope that positive outcomes are possible. In a very small way, a decision made over a decade ago that was met with some skepticism within the humanities, has turned out to have been prescient and doubly valuable.

KEEP READING

---

Migranthood: Youth in a New Era of Deportation
By Lauren Heidbrink

Alongside young people’s diverse migratory trajectories, Migranthood traces how securitized approaches to migration management, often under the guise of “development,” is a mode of governance that moves across and beyond geopolitical space. National and regional securitization programs, border externalization policies, and detention and deportation are enlisted to manage desired and undesired migrants, increasingly ensnaring children and youth in this global immigration dragnet.

NEWS

'Humanities graduates are just as employable': do the sciences really lead to more jobs? Via The Guardian

Virginia State University possibly offering nation’s first-ever history course on HBCU’s Via WWBT, Richmond

African Humanities Program Postdoctoral Fellowships, Via ACLS

Thank you to everyone who has contributed to the OTH Defending the Humanities Resource Project. You can add your own resource by clicking the button below!

CONTRIBUTE TO THE OTH DEFENDING THE HUMANITIES RESOURC PROJECT

The Third Chapter Project, Inc. Updates

Third Chapter is Now Registered for Amazon Smiles Donations
by Clare Doyle

The Third Chapter Project is now registered as a charitable organization with the Amazon Smiles program. If you shop via Amazon, and would like Amazon to donate a percentage of what you spend on the site to Third Chapter, simply go to smile.amazon.com, and click the “Get Started” button. Log in with your Amazon credentials, and, when prompted, pick The Third Chapter Project, Inc, as your charitable organization. Many Amazon purchases are eligible for Amazon Smile donations and if you look underneath the product information you will see a badge “Eligible for amazon smile donation” if this is the case. You don’t need to do anything else—order the product as usual and Amazon will donate 0.5% of eligible purchases to Third Chapter. There are no fees and no extra cost to you!

LEARN MORE

Submit a piece for OTH